The Chief of the Yugoslav General Staff has sent a circular letter to Generals who are Commanders of Armies, cautioning them to take all the necessary precautions that the secret weapons obtained from Soviet Russia before the conflict with the Cominform be kept secret and guarded, so as to exclude every possibility of "foreign agents" seeing them or obtaining information about their nature. The circular letter expressly stresses the personal responsibility of commanding officers for any neglect in taking all security measures in view of the fact that "agents of the Western Powers, particularly America, have been instructed to penetrate the secret of these weapons." The circular letter also said that "these precautions are necessary because Yugoslav Communists are no traitors and shall never give away secrets which they have obtained under the pledge to keep secret, whatever the momentary relations with the Soviet Communist Party..."
